

Picture sources

Source A: the execution of partisans by the German army, summer 1942.

Source B: women working in the Krasnaya Gorniyachka mines.

Source C: women making shells at a munitions factory, Siberia 1942.

Source D: residents of Stalingrad, take a shelter in a dugout, October 1942.

Copyright credits

Source A

Execution of partisans, from Velizh, Smolensk district, by the German army, 1942.

CREDIT: akg-images / Universal Images Group

COPYRIGHT NOTICE: Copyright akg-images

Source B

A group of young women who work in the Krasnaya Gornychka mines near Chelyabinsk, they have taken the place of their husbands and brothers who are soldiers that are fighting at the front.

CREDIT: Sovfoto / Universal Images Group

COPYRIGHT NOTICE: Copyright Universal Images Group

Source C

Civilian women making artillery shells at a munitions factory in Siberia, 1942.

CREDIT: Sovfoto / Universal Images Group

COPYRIGHT NOTICE: Copyright Universal Images Group

Source D

Residents of Stalingrad who had chosen not to leave the besieged city, take a shelter in a dugout, October 1942.

CREDIT: Sovfoto / Universal Images Group

COPYRIGHT NOTICE: Copyright Universal Images Group

For Education Use Only

This and millions of other educational images are available through Britannica Image Quest. For a free trial, please visit <http://www.britannica.co.uk/trial>